

SONEXIS CONNECTS: Distance Learning

Expanding educational course access beyond the classroom

Access to education fuels opportunity. For students and professionals alike, such opportunities should never be jeopardized by something as simple as distance.

Combining the powerful ConferenceManager™2 with our dynamic Sonexis software, Sonexis Distance Learning delivers a robust solution for universities and corporations looking to provide instant educational course access through virtual and telephonic channels. The simple to use solution enables convenient and reliable access to lectures, seminars and training sessions from anywhere, at any time.

Discover the Benefits

Full Session Management

Sonexis Distance Learning solutions support full session management through a dedicated operator/agent interface. Typically handled by existing help desk staff, the operator can easily monitor numerous calls simultaneously.

Addressing the Class

At any time, connected participants can signal the session moderator by remotely “raising their hand.” These participants are automatically queued for moderator acknowledgment.

Live Break-out Sessions

Attendees can be divided into private sub-conferences for group work or discussions. There is support for up to ten sub-conferences off of the main audio call.

Built-in Recording/Lesson Archiving

The lesson can be digitally recorded automatically or with a single click. Students or session attendees can later retrieve the recorded file by download.

Speaker Identification

A visual indicator allows all parties to easily identify the speaker.

Tracking Attendance

Statistical data collected for each class can be used to track attendance.

Integrated Help Desk

Professors, students, and general users who need assistance on their call can dial *00 to privately speak to the Help Desk operator. The intuitive agent interface allows operators to effortlessly view and manage all call participants, troubleshoot connections, or even join calls when necessary.

Distance Learning Simplified

Sonexis Distance Learning solutions add flexibility and convenience to the course offerings of universities and corporate education departments. By simplifying the process and streamlining access, you enrich the learning experience for all users.

The screenshot displays the Sonexis ConferenceManager interface. At the top, there are tabs for 'Live Conferences', 'Scheduled Conferences', and 'Create Ad-Hoc'. Below this is a table of active conferences with columns for 'Display', 'Host Name', 'Conf ID', 'Subject', 'Start Time', and 'Scheduled End Time'. The table lists four conferences: Freshmen Orientation's Conference, Psych 204's Conference, ME 700's Conference, and Math 101's Conference. Below the table, there are four 'Audio' view panels for different conferences, each showing a list of participants and their contact information. The panels are labeled: 'Math 101 5101: Math 101's Conference', 'Freshmen Orientation 992228: Freshmen Orientation's', 'ME 700 3700: ME 700's Conference', and 'Psych 204 6204: Psych 204's Conference'. A 'Private with Operator' panel is also visible, showing a participant named Sally Thompson. Numbered callouts 1 through 4 highlight specific features: 1. Help Desk Control Area (top left), 2. Active Course List (table), 3. View Panel (individual conference views), and 4. Break-out Session Support (Private with Operator panel).
